

Your Rights as a patient of The Cardiac Centre

We respect your right to:

Personal dignity and to be treated with care and consideration

Privacy and for communication and records to be treated confidentially

A clear explanation by your cardiologist of your illness, procedure, treatment and risks involved so you are able to give informed consent

To be educated about continuing health care following treatment

Receive an explanation of possible costs involved in your treatment

Refuse treatment at any time.

Make a formal complaint if you are unhappy with your treatment at any time.

Your responsibilities as a patient of The Cardiac Centre

You have a responsibility to:

Provide complete and accurate information about your current symptoms, medications, and past illnesses as requested by your cardiologist

Indicate if you do not understand any aspects of your proposed treatment, expected outcomes, or risks involved.

Follow recommendations and treatment plans made by your cardiologist

Notify this office if you are unable to attend a scheduled appointment

Bring with you a full list of current medications each time you attend for treatment

Bring a referral from your GP, if required.